The Fern Hill Palace, Ootacamund, The Nilgiris, South India
April 30, 1959

Dear Mr. Sooba Rao:

Have you had any luck in tracking down those two other books of mine which His Highness had borrowed and didn't remember to get back to me in the rush of departure? Mr. Ramaswamy sent up two of them - but of course it would happen that these were NOT the ones I need most - and really must have as quickly as possible. The missing volumes are both dark blue covers with gold lettering: (My name should be in them...)

1) Education in the New Age
2) The Light of the Soul - A Treatise on the Yoga Sutras of Patanjali.

The last time I saw them they were in HH's library in that corner by the window - to the right side as you face the windows - you know. But as he was in the process of studying them, they might also be on his desk in his private study or beside his bed. PLEASE LOOK - because I need both of these volumes for work I am doing, as reference, right now! I wrote His Highness to try to remember where he had put them and to let us know, but since he is traveling so fast my letter may not reach him, and in the meantime I am quite at a loss without these books.

Please do what you can to find them and I will be eternally grateful if you can do so and get them to me here by the daily messenger.

Sincerely yours,

Julie Medlock